My favourite places in Melbourne, Australia. Posted by Riley Randall

There's always something to see and do in Melbourne. Here are some of my favourites.

Eureka Skydeck

The Eureka Tower is the tallest building in Melbourne. Ride up to the 88th floor for views of the city from the Skydeck. When the sun goes down, the city lights are amazing! Or in November, do the Eureka Climb. The winner of this race is the fastest person to go up the 1,642 steps!

Melbourne City Baths

The baths are on Swanston Street. The building is over 115 years old, but it has a modern sports centre with the largest swimming pool in the city centre. My little sister is learning to swim there at the moment and my friends and I use the bikes in the gym.

Bourke Street Mall

There isn't any traffic on this shopping street – it's for people and trams only. My friends and I like the trendy shops. Musicians usually play in the street too. If you're hungry, try a doughnut at Doughboys. They're delicious!

Lido Cinema

There are cinemas everywhere and, in the summer, the Lido is outdoors. It's easy to get there from the cycle lane on Glenferrie Road. I usually have a burger and chips in a fast-food restaurant with my friends before the film.
